

NEW OFFICERS OF LEGION INSTALLED

State Commander Hollenbach
Addresses Local Members.

BIG YEAR IS PLANNED

The new officers of the Harold D. Speakman Post, American Legion, were installed Monday night at a well-attended and interesting meeting at the post home in the Community Building. Benjamin Howarth, ninth district commander, was in charge of the ceremony.

The new officers are: Commander, Robert C. Collins; first vice commander, W. Russell Green; second vice commander, Arthur Landis Cooke; adjutant, Roland K. Hewitt; sergeant-at-arms, Robert A. Mueller; finance officer, John A. Mowrer, Jr.

After the installation ceremony, State Commander Edwin E. Hollenbach gave a very interesting address on the purpose and activities of the Legion throughout the State. The need of additional hospitals to care for World War veterans still needing medical aid was stressed, and everyone urged to support the bill to be presented in Legislature for a new 1000-bed hospital in Pennsylvania. He also told of the need of vocational training and occupation for tubercular cases, and of the men who are now being placed in the State Forestry Preserves, where the work will be healthful.

The local Legion Post is planning for an active and helpful year in Narberth. After the meeting the auxiliary served refreshments, which were enjoyed by all.

FLOWERS BLOOM

When Weather Man Brings Summer
Weather to Main Line in Nov.

Violets, dandelions and rose bushes began to bloom on the Main Line this week, and it began to look as if the old swimming hole would be doing a rushing business along about Christmas time. In Cynwyd a magnolia tree bloomed for the third time this year. The first time was early in spring, when weather prevailed as abnormally warm as this week's.

A temperature excess of 126 degrees since November 1 had piled up by Tuesday night, according to Main Line Weather Observer Charles J. A. Decker in his weekly report. For the same period last year there was a deficiency of 39 degrees.

Since November 23 there was an average excess for each day of the week of over 13 degrees. High and low temperatures for the week follow: Wednesday, 72-47; Thursday, 61-45; Friday, 50-38; Saturday, 55-32; Sunday, 63-43; Monday, 60-43; Tuesday, 68-44.

The week's precipitation was .59 of an inch, making the month's total 5.25 inches. Although the temperature fluctuated all the way from 32 to 72 degrees, the barometer was fairly steady, with a high of 30.35 and a low of 29.88.

BE PATIENT, ONLY ONE WEEK.

The Methodist bazaar next Saturday, December 10, promises to be one of the most successful events of its kind ever held in Narberth. A rather novel feature of this affair is the sale of parcel post packages which have been coming in from various points in the United States expressly for the bazaar, and which will be on sale at the parcel post booth at 10 cents and 25 cents each. Of course many other articles will be on display, including aprons of all kinds at reasonable prices, a large assortment of groceries, cakes, candy, etc. A fishing pond which is guaranteed to produce "the goods" will also be an added attraction. The date is next Saturday, the place, Elm Hall, and the time, all day.

AUTO SHOW IS ON

Yesterday saw the opening of the first annual Automobile Show of the Main Line, being held December 1, 2 and 3, at the Royal Building, Maple avenue, just off Lancaster avenue, Bryn Mawr. Many members of the newly organized Main Line Automobile Dealers' Association are taking this opportunity to exhibit the new 1928 model cars.

Penn Captain and Coach

Paul Scull, of Bala, brilliant half-back of the University of Penn football team, who was unanimously elected captain for 1928 by the Penn lettermen following the Cornell game last week. He first came into football prominence at Lower Merion High School, from which he graduated in 1924. This is the second captaincy in the family, as his brother, Folwell Scull, was chosen leader of the Penn track team last spring.

Coach Louis Alonzo Young, of Narberth, whose Penn football team finished a brilliant comeback on Thanksgiving Day, when it defeated Cornell by one of the biggest scores in years. After his eleven had been defeated three times in a row by forward passing attacks employed by Penn State, Chicago and Navy, Coach Young took a leaf from the books of those opponents and switched to an overhead offensive himself. The result was spectacular victories over Harvard, Columbia and Cornell.

KOHLAS IS LIKELY PICK FOR CAPTAIN

Belief Common That He Will
Be Choice of L. M. High Lettermen.

20 MAY GET LETTERS

Franklin Kohlas, sortel topped back of the Lower Merion High School football team, will probably be chosen captain for 1928 when elections are held later this month at the Ardmore School. "Red" is one of the new senior regulars on this year's team and White eleven, who will be available to Coach Adam next season, and he seems the most likely choice for the captaincy.

Football lettermen have not yet been named at Lower Merion, and probably won't be until near the holiday season. It is likely, however, that insignias will be awarded to approximately 20 members of this year's grid squad, in addition to the honorary letters, which will be voted Manager Paul Lees.

The players who should be eligible for their letters include: Alfred D'Amora, end; Clyde Richardson, tackle; George Bottoms, guard; Clarence Scott, center; Louis Baker, guard; Captain Allen Cook, tackle; Monroe Purse, end; Kohlas, back; Bill Mearns, back; Parker Lloyd, fullback; Sam Barclay, end, and back; McGee, tackle; Melvin Bowman, end; Dick Murphy, center; Bill Blair, center; Charles Faulk, guard; Radley Cross, back; Ossie Smith, quarterback; Laird Cunningham, guard; Sherman Coleman, guard. Still others on the squad may be awarded the insignias as it is the practice of Coach Adam to encourage the development of football material at Lower Merion by making as many awards as practical.

Kohlas seems assured the captaincy because he is the outstanding performer among the players who will return, and will be seniors next year. It is customary to choose a senior, the occasionally a junior, or even a lower classman is selected.

The Lower Merion team will be badly hit by graduations next June. Coach Adam will lose all but one of his regular backfield men and many of his regular linesmen. Those who will depart this year are Bottoms, Baker, Purse, Mearns, Lloyd, Barclay, Coleman, Blair, Cross and Smith.

MASS MEETING

Gospel League to Meet at School

There will be a mass meeting held at the Narberth Public School Building next Friday evening, December 9, at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the School Bag Gospel League. The speaker will be Mr. William Allen Dean, a prominent Bible teacher, whose address will be on the subject: "Is the Bible the Word of God?" Everybody is invited, especially those interested in children.

WOMEN'S CLUB ENJOYS CON-

CERT BY CITY GLEE CLUB

The Women's Community Club was not disappointed in the fine program given them by the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Glee Club, composed of 50 men under the leadership of William P. Bentz, leader of the Main Line Choral. Two groups of songs of unusual merit were given. The tenor solo with glee club accompaniment by Mr. Edward Hopper was especially enjoyed. As an interlude between the song groups, Stewart Anderson, of Avon road, gave a clear and understandable talk on life insurance. He said that life insurance is not an expense, but a cash saving in money, and that no young man should marry without protecting the woman he marries by insurance.

Mrs. George N. Gill reported that a box of clothing weighing 150 pounds has been shipped to the Crossnore School and that she was ready for donations for another. Mrs. H. F. Stevens reported that the movie benefit netted the clubhouse fund about $120. Of especial interest in the study groups was the announcement of the music study class, which is held at the home of Mrs. Arthur C. Staples. Fifteenth and sixteenth century music will be discussed at the next meeting with Mrs. Wallace Fritz, of Philadelphia, in charge. Afternoon tea was served to the club and its men guests by Mrs. Albert Frederick and her aids.

MAKES PLEA FOR EARLIER MAILING

Packages Should Go Out
Soon to Ease Post Office Load.

ONE XMAS DELIVERY

A determined effort to have Christmas mail sent early to relieve the usual holiday congestion in the post office department is being made by the postal authorities. Narberth residents are being requested to do their bit to aid this campaign by Postmaster J. Bertram Nesper.

"We'll have an extra postal room this year, as usual," Mr. Nesper said yesterday. "It will be located in the vacant store next to Davis' on Haverford avenue. It would be impossible to handle the Christmas mail in the main office, where we hardly have room for our daily run of matter."

"The post office will make but one delivery on Christmas day," he said, "and that one delivery will not be able to take of all the last minute mailings. There will be many parcels of Christmas gifts that will be delivered late because of congestion, unless mailing is done early."

"For a few days preceding Christmas the entire postal service is congested with several times the normal volume of mail. Early mailing scatters that congestion, and helps to avoid delay to your gifts. Parcel-post matter cannot be dispatched on the same trains that letters are carried on, but instead has to be sent to the various distributing offices throughout the country, hence ample time is required for the transportation of the matter to such offices, and for distribution thereof."

"Postal employees are under a heavy strain during the Christmas rush. Every package mailed early helps to lighten their burden. Want Deliveries December 19.

"It is earnestly requested that gifts be mailed so as to reach destination by Saturday, December 18. If the gifts reach destination on December 17 there is ample time allowed the receiving post office to deliver them before December 24. The slogan 'Mail Early' means at an early hour on an early date."

"Latest dates when to mail: For California and the Far West, was December 7; for Rocky Mountain States, December 8; for other States of Middle West, December 9; for Southern States, December 10; for Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, December 10; for New England States December 12; for Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, December 13, for New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, December 14; for Philadelphia city, December 19.

"Parcels must be carefully wrapped in cardboard and heavy wrapping paper and securely tied with strong twine to be insured."

"The use of a Special Delivery stamp will insure delivery on Christmas Day, or on Monday, December 26, if mailed at the proper time."

PIRATE TREASURE OR NEO- LITHIC BONES?

Caesar the Slick Sleuth Scents Smelling Secret.

For the past several weeks certain persons have been mysteriously examining and measuring the grounds of the Narberth Tennis Association.

What does it mean? A search for buried pirate treasure, neolithic bones, or the beginning of a Narberth subway?

And what do the piles of dirt on the lower courts mean? Who put them there and for what purpose?

These baffling conditions have aroused the curiosity of Caesar the Slick Sleuth, who has determined to unravel this mystery at all odds and to make a confidential report in this column next week.

There will be a meeting of the sub-junior next Tuesday, December 5, at 7:30, at the home of Eleanor Michaelson, on Haverford avenue.

Real Estate Man Dies

John A. Caldwell, Narberth real estate broker, who died suddenly on Thanksgiving day. He was prominently identified with local affairs since before the formation of the Borough.

CALDWELL FUNERAL HELD ON MONDAY

Death Removes One of Pioneer Residents of the Borough.

HAD BEEN ILL A YEAR

John Andrew Caldwell, of 122 Elmwood avenue, died at his home Thanksgiving day. He had been ill for nearly a year, following a stroke. His death occurred suddenly, as he slept, and followed a partial recovery during which time he was able to resume some of his activities. He was 56 years of age.

Mr. Caldwell was born at Inter-course, Lancaster county, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Caldwell. With his father and two brothers he moved to Narberth in 1894, before the borough was formed, and engaged in business.

The grocery store of C. E. Taylor was purchased, and for a number of years was conducted as the only store in the neighborhood. It was situated on the present Y. M. C. A. corner. In 1900 Mr. Caldwell and his brother, Robert M. Caldwell, took over the local coal yard, which they managed until Mr. Caldwell entered actively into politics.

He was first appointed Deputy Treasurer of the county, at Norristown, and later received a position at the State Capital. Later he was affiliated with Schwenk and Caldwell, wholesale grocers, in the capacity of a representative, traveling through Chester and Montgomery counties and the State of Maryland.

In partnership with Walter Cowin, the real estate firm of Caldwell and Co. was formed, succeeding A. D. Warnock, in the office which is now the home of the local Boy Scout Troop. When Mr. Cowin withdrew, Mr. Caldwell continued the business under his own name. In 1924 his son, J. Baird Caldwell, joined the firm, and later Robert W. Caldwell identified himself with the business.

Mr. Caldwell was the agent for William T. Harris in the latter's extensive building and real estate operations in the borough over a period of years. Under the name of Caldwell and Harris the two men built and operated the Arcade Theater on Haverford avenue, Narberth's first movie venture.

Mr. Caldwell was one of the organizers of the Board of Trade last year. He was a member of the Narberth Presbyterian Church and of Cassia Lodge, No. 273, F. and A. M., of Ardmore. He was one of the first members of the Narberth Fire Company, and also was prominent in the affairs of the Lower Merion-Narberth Republican Club.

A staunch Republican, he wielded a noticeable influence in county political affairs. During his life he made political enemies and staunch friends, and was admired for his devotion to his family and his generosity and friendship in personal contacts over a long period of years.

He is survived by his aged mother, Mrs. Amanda Caldwell, known to all as "Grandmother," by his wife, Mrs. Helen Baird Caldwell, whom he married in 1900; by two brothers, William J. Caldwell, of Lancaster and Robert W. Caldwell, of Narberth, and by six children: James Baird Caldwell, Helen, Lois, Janet, Edith and Eunice.

Funeral services were held from his home Monday. The services were conducted by the Rev. John Van Ness, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, assisted by a former pastor, Rev. Loyal Y. Graham, and by the Rev. Henry Shindle, of Narberth. Mrs. Carrie Woll sang. Interment was at St. Paul's Lutheran Cemetery, Ardmore, where Masonic services were held.

BAPTIST GIRLS HOLD SALE

A sale of homemade cakes, candies and Christmas table favors will be held in the vacant store next to Crane's Drug Store today from 10:30 A. M. to 5:30 P. M. This sale is under the direction of the girls in the young people's department of the Baptist church. The proceeds will be used for clothing the orphans under the care of the Baptist School.

TO DEDICATE NEW LUTHERAN ORGAN

Visiting Ministers to Aid in Ceremony at Church
Tomorrow.

A SPLENDID INSTRUMENT

The new organ recently installed in the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church will be formally dedicated at services to be held Sunday afternoon (tomorrow) at 3 o'clock. The instrument is a Kilgen organ, carefully designed for the acoustical properties of the building.

The pastor, Rev. Cletus A. Senft, will conduct the dedication services, assisted by Dr. A. Pohlman, of the Temple Lutheran Church of Philadelphia, who will deliver the dedicatory sermon; by Dr. I. Chantry Hoffman, of the Board of Home Missions, and by the Rev. Albert C. Kaninger, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Ardmore. There will be special music by the church choir and a solo by Mrs. Senft, "Open the Gates of the Temple." The church has invited all residents to attend the services.

On Thursday evening, December 8, at 8:15 o'clock, an organ recital will be given on the new instrument.

Ralph P. Lewars, organist of the Holy Communion Lutheran Church of Philadelphia, will render numerous organ selections, and Miss Jessie Glenn, soprano soloist of Philadelphia, will be the assisting artist. The Holy Trinity Church extends a most cordial invitation to this recital. No cards of admission have been issued. A silver offering will be collected.

The new two manual organ of the Holy Trinity Church has been built by the Kilgen Organ Company of St. Louis, a firm with over 200 years of experience in organ building.

The action throughout is the "Kilgen's Improved Electro Pneumatic." The console is of the new type and design with finger key stop tablets and combination pistons adjustable while seated at the organ bench. The voicing is of the highest quality; the various stops being voiced so as to combine power, delicacy and richness of tone.

FATHERS' ASSOCIATION TO MEET

Notices were sent out last week announcing the annual meeting of the Fathers' Association of the Boy Scouts, to be held in The Cabin at 8 o'clock next Wednesday evening, December 7.

Executive officers as well as directors for the coming year will be elected and the troop committee appointed. The nominating committee, of which F. A. Lanahan is chairman, is interviewing those whom the committee will nominate for the several positions. Others may also be placed in nomination at the meeting.

The association membership now numbers over 50 fathers, and a large attendance is expected. Others who are interested in the work of the boys are invited to be present.

Work has now been resumed on the organ at St. John's Church, Cynwyd, which is being rebuilt under the supervision of Dr. H. J. Tily.

THE LOCAL PAPER

To the Editor of "Our Town:"

Today I received a letter in which a prominent man "knocked" a local paper, with some reason, but there are many things which he forgot. He forgot that the local paper told the world that he was born and congratulated his mother and father on his arrival, that it followed his boyhood career and gave him credit whenever he had earned its praise, that it let his friends know when he was engaged to be married so that they might share his happiness, that it gave an account of his wedding, which was a source of great happiness and pride to him, that it has followed his career in the industrial and social world with the interest of an old friend, that it has extended its sympathy and that of its readers to him in his hours of sorrow, and that it will mourn with his family and friends when he passes on. He forgets, perhaps, that had he not chosen a constructive, decent, honest and helpful life the paper would have warned his friends, it would have exposed any injustice and dishonesty, any crime of which he might have been guilty, and yet at the first sign of a return to normal life it would have given him a hand to get back. He forgets how proud he was when it mentioned the birth of his children and their achievements in school and at sport, how much he enjoys reading about the activities of his friends and acquaintances. He has failed to realize how much inconvenience timely notices in this paper have saved him, how much money he has made by advertising in its columns. In short, he temporarily overlooks the fact that in many ways the paper has molded certain phases of his life as it has everyone's else in the community.

This correspondent had a grievance, trivial as it was, but the paper will go on with or without him. If it is good, honest, sincere and fearless, it will last and flourish long after a headstone marks the correspondent's last resting place, long after the present staff of the paper have gone to join him.

I suggest, then, that fault-finding subscribers criticize and correct at the same time and construct our policies instead of, through spite, destroying their interest in one of our most vital and human of institutions.

DISCUSSES ZONING

To the Editor of "Our Town:"

In your issue of November 12, 1927, under the heading "Boro Zoning Tilt Fizzles—Truce Brings a Four-Word Compromise," it appears to me that you are unduly jubilant for a "Co-operative Community Newspaper" over what you are pleased to call (and have others believe), was a "fizzle" of the case against the Narberth Zoning Ordinance brought against the Borough of Narberth by Mrs. Flemming. The reverse is the case.

Mrs. Flemming won her case without a trial because the Borough of Narberth receded from its stand and gave her what she wanted. Why did they "Compromise," as you call it? To a fair observer it would appear that they compromised because they were afraid to put the law, as far as it regards Montgomery avenue, to a test, and not, as you state in your article, because "apparently Mr. Bean had read some of the State and Supreme Court decisions on zoning the night before the hearing, and had realized the futility of an attempt to upset the local law."

I do not believe anyone will deny the advisability and reasonableness of zoning laws when they are applied with judgment and common sense. But what reason or common sense is there in the representatives of the borough of Narberth deciding that the South side of Montgomery avenue is a residential section, when the North side is non-restricted and is being developed as a business district? This arbitrary ruling of the borough of Narberth is rather ludicrous and incongruous to a resident of Montgomery avenue, like myself, who has a garage in front of him on Gordon avenue, a garage behind him on Iona avenue, a gas filling station to the right of him on Montgomery avenue diagonally across the street about half a block away, another gas filling station and garage to the left of him on Montgomery avenue, diagonally across the street another half a block away, and a business block across the street on each side about two blocks or less away, to say nothing of two nurseries which are engaged commercially.

When Mrs. Flemming's first request for permission to use her property as a gas filling and accessory station came before the borough Council, I noticed that the principal objectors were the merchants on Haverford avenue, with Cris Koch as their spokesman. Their objection was that it would injure their business, and lessen the value of their property on Haverford avenue, but no one seemed to consider the fact that the residents of Montgomery avenue had property, and that its value was at stake. It appears to me that the residents of Montgomery avenue (most of whom own their property) should have just as much "say so," or more, as to how Montgomery avenue should be zoned, as have Cris Koch and the merchants of Haverford avenue, most of whom I believe rent their scores and are only opposed to business development on Montgomery avenue because it would affect their pocketbooks.

My idea and, I think, the reasonable idea, of a zoning law is a law that enables the residents of any particular district, such as Montgomery avenue, to decide for themselves whether business enterprises should be allowed in their vicinity, and should they decide adversely, then the zoning law protects them. But on the other hand if they do not desire the zoning law applied, as is the present case with the residents of Montgomery avenue, it seems only fair and just that their wishes should be given more consideration than the desires of a score of merchants on Haverford avenue, who aim to throttle competition by restricting the development of Narberth.

The solons of Narberth and "Our Town," enthuse over it—they point with pride to the new moving picture theater, and announce the opening of any new enterprise with great eclat, yet the first move toward a Greater Narberth is throttled by inveighing the zoning law on Montgomery avenue to please a small group of self-interested merchants whose only desire is to restrict Narberth to a small string of stores along one street. What need of a railroad station if Narberth is to remain a "one horse" town forever whose commercial vista is bounded by Haverford avenue?

But Narberth must expand, both in a residential and in a business way. There is room for both. And since the Lower Merion side of Montgomery avenue is already given over to business enterprises, what better location could be found for another business district in a Greater Narberth than Montgomery avenue? And what impartial Judge or jury could ever sustain a zoning ordinance applied to Montgomery avenue against the will of the property owners there, when one side of the street belonging to Lower Merion is unrestricted and is being built up as a business section.

The fact remains that the action at Norristown was a complete victory for Mrs. Flemming, and if there was any "fizzle," it was on the part of the borough of Narberth.

As a large number of the readers of "Our Town" are residents of Montgomery avenue, it seems only fair that it should present the zoning controversy fairly and impartially instead of in a way designed to create a prejudice against the property owners of Montgomery avenue.

MRS. JOHN P. MILLER.

"Our Town" is glad to give space to Mrs. Miller's discussion of the Montgomery avenue zoning question. Her letter contains many points which should have a bearing on future considerations of the problem.

The editor resents, however, the accusation that the paper is "taking sides" with either party in the controversy. The article referred to was prepared after the hearing had been reported in person, and after the papers bearing on the case had been carefully read.

If the writer of the article was "jubilant" and "enthused," Mrs. Miller has pointed out the reason. Mrs. Flemming won her point and the borough was satisfied with the compromise effected. There is certainly no cause for the paper to go into mourning when both parties in a case are pleased with the outcome.

Our columns are open to the residents of Montgomery avenue as well as to the "solons" and "self-interested merchants." To the editor's knowledge, no person interested has come to the paper with Montgomery avenue's story. No request has been made for space in which to "sell" the idea of a business section. When that request is made; when the residents take advantage of the fact that this is in fact a "Co-operative Community Newspaper" to present their case; when they allay their suspicions that we are the tools of the vicious and vested interests—these columns are at their disposal.

And if they win their point, with or without our aid, we shall again write a "jubilant" article, to "enthuse" over the solution of another problem.

At the Theater

For the dissemination of fact and the playful use of alliteration, "Paid to Love" is a rollicking review of a royal romance. It's the Fox picture which comes to the Narberth Theater next Monday and Tuesday, with George O'Brien and Virginia Valli in the leading roles. J. Farrell Macdonald, as the rich American, who, of course, substitutes for Sir Daniel Cupid, is as funny a comedian as he ever was, which is saying a great deal.

The story deals with a mythical kingdom, the crown prince of which is more interested in mechanics than women. The old king would have his elder son marry and produce heirs rather than remain single and produce strange noises in the royal garage with his blooming machinery.

With Janet Gaynor playing as a star for the first time and a fine cast of players in support, "Two Girls Wanted," Fox Films version of the John Golden stage hit, will have its initial local showing at the Narberth Theater next Wednesday. Unlike the tragic little Paris street wail in "Seventh Heaven," the characterization of whom brought fame to Miss Gaynor, her Mariana in this picture is a happy, plucky, young American Miss. It is a role that is peculiarly suited to Miss Gaynor and one in which she gives probably the best interpretation of her career.

A cast of players of unusual merit support Miss Gaynor, including Glenn Tryon, Marie Mosquini, Ben Bard, Joseph Cawthorn, Doris Lloyd and others almost equally well known and popular.

Fox Films comedy drama, "High School Hero," which opens at the Narberth Theater Friday, brings to the screen not only a new director, but a group of youthful players as well who promise to be among those in the front ranks of their art in a short time.

In fact, never before have there been seen so many new faces in a picture. David Butler deserves great credit not only for his able direction, but for his ability in selecting such a remarkable cast made up principally of youngsters. There is Sally Phipps, wholly charming, apparently still in her teens and a splendid comedienne. Nick Stuart, who scored his first success, as the college boy sheik in "Cradle Snatchers," improves over his former performance as one of the "boy friends" to the dainty heroine as played by Miss Phipps. Then there is John Darrow, another "boy friend," and Charles Paddock, famous sprinter, in the role of coach.

Director Butler adhered strictly to the spirit of his subject, and gives a vivid picture of the typical American high school with all its activities, humors, boy and girl loves and athletic activities. Decidedly a photoplay worth seeing.

CAMP FIRE BAZAAR

There will be an unusual array of unique articles never before displayed at a Camp Fire bazaar in Narberth. Home-made cakes and home-made candy. If you have tasted the "dreams" of the Camp Fire Girls be on hand for there will be some more.

Also, besides all these things, we will have a grab-bag for the children. It will be held on December 17 in the empty room next to Davis'. Don't forget the time or place!

ANOTHER HEARING ON NEW BUS LINE

Residents of Merion Protest a Plan for Wynnewood Avenue Route.

ANOTHER GROUP FOR IT

Another hearing was held yesterday before the Public Service Commission, in Philadelphia City Hall, on the petition of the Montgomery Bus Company for permission to run a new bus line down Wynnewood avenue from City line through Merion, Narberth, and Wynnewood, to Ardmore. Merion property owners residing along the proposed route are antagonistic to the proposal and a number of them appeared at the hearing to voice their opposition.

Protesting also were attorneys of the Merion Civic Association and representatives of Narberth Borough Council. Favoring the route on the other hand was a group of property owners on the south side of Narberth bordering Merion.

The new line would be operated as a part of the Montgomery Pike route of the Philadelphia Suburban Bus Company, which the Montgomery Bus Company is running under a ten-year operating agreement. Several times past has the matter been before the Public Service Commission and, as the result of protests voiced on these occasions, three variations to the route have been suggested.

Three Endings for Line.

It was proposed to originate the line at Sixty-third street and Lancaster avenue, in Overbrook; take it out Overbrook to City Line, across City Line to Wynnewood avenue and down Wynnewood avenue to Wynnewood road, Narberth. It is at this point that the variations occur.

One proposal was to continue the route on Wynnewood road to Wynnewood station, then under the railroad on Penn road to Aubrey road, on Aubrey road to Kent road, over Kent road to Church road, and out Church road to Montgomery pike, and thence to Anderson avenue in Ardmore.

A second suggestion was to continue the line on Wynnewood avenue to the Wynnewood station, then under the railroad on Penn road, out Penn road to Montgomery pike, and then to Ardmore.

Still a third proposal was to leave Wynnewood avenue at the intersection of Wynnewood road in Narberth and continue out the latter thoroughfare along the edge of Narberth to Montgomery pike, and thence to Anderson avenue, Ardmore.

All three of the variations have met with opposition from property owners. Disapproval of one or more of the proposals has also been voiced in the past by Merion and Wynnewood civic associations.

On the other hand sixty-five property owners on the south side of Narberth, bordering Merion, presented a petition to the Public Service Commission this spring asking for the bus line as a convenience for prompt transportation to West Philadelphia.

OVER-ORGANIZED

Hon. J. Burnett Holland, president judge of the Orphans' Court of Montgomery County, was the speaker of the evening at Tuesday's meeting of the Main Line Kiwanians Club, and had taken for his subject "Cooperation and Coordination."

Judge Holland, during the past few months since his elevation to the judgeship in Montgomery County, has had considerable experience addressing various organizations throughout the country, and gave it as his impression that the various communities into which he had recently gone were over-organized, and that there was a surplus of organizations existing, each of which was duplicating the work of the others. He emphasized the fact that service clubs have a very vital place in the community in preventing over-organization and in concentrating the activities of the existing organizations along their own lines so that there will be no over-lapping of activities.

Judge Holland expressed the thought as his opinion that what was needed in most of the communities in this country at this time was not cooperation between the members of the community by various organizations, but coordination between the organizations themselves so that each particular organization might undertake its own activities and attain its own objectives without interfering or overlapping with the activities of the other organizations.

DR. COPP TO ADDRESS METHODISTS

There will be a visiting speaker at the Narberth Methodist Episcopal Church at the hour of morning worship next Sunday. The meeting will be under the auspices of the Woman's Home Missionary Society. Its officers consider themselves fortunate in having been able to secure for this service as a special speaker the Rev. Zed Hetzel Copp, LL.D. Besides having served some strong Presbyterian churches in the pastorate Doctor Copp has had wide experience in social service work. He is a well-read student on the work of the church in connection with civic affairs. A rare treat is in store for all members.

CHARTER NOTICE

BAZAAR FEATURES

A Good Fishing Date.

Say, children, did you ever go fishing and sit on the bank and fish, and fish, and never catch a thing the live-long day? Wasn't it dry and monotonous? Maybe you fell into the water. Well, if you did, you couldn't exactly call it a dry time, but it was far from pleasant and besides you were wondering what mother would say.

To feel real happy on a fishing trip you just have to catch something, and in order to catch something every time you throw in your line you must fish

Now, children, I know a wonderful place, the fish pond at the Methodist church bazaar in Elm Hall, and December 10 is the best fishing date of the whole year. On December 10 this pond will be swarming with curious fish just waiting to get on your line. Lots of fish, lots of fun and only 5 cents and 10 cents a fish, too! Mother need not worry about your getting wet, either.

Bring all your friends and come for an all-day fishing trip, kiddies.

The Methodist bazaar in Elm Hall, December 10. Don't forget!

Don't forget, there will be a large assortment of groceries at the Methodist church bazaar Saturday, December 10.

ber 10. Keep this in mind when doing your marketing and buy a little in advance to have on the shelf for unexpected company.

A big sale of aprons at the Methodist bazaar on Saturday, December 10, in Elm Hall. Fancy aprons, plain aprons, maids' aprons and smocks at reasonable prices.

Parcel Post Packages.
Parcels sent by mail from various points in the United States expressly for the Narberth M. E. Church bazaar, December 10, will be on sale at the parcel post booth at 10 cents and 25 cents each.

Though there may be many surprises each package will contain something worth the price.

Come and have a laugh.

POLICE OFFICIALS TO MEET TUESDAY

Final Details of New Traffic System Will Be Presented.

RESIDENTS APPROVE

Announcement of the plans of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways and the Keystone Automobile Club for uniformity of traffic signals on the Main Line will be made at a meeting of police officials and policemen of Lower Merion, Haverford and Radnor townships, the borough of Lansdowne and the city of Chester at Oakmont on December 6. Much interest has been aroused by the survey and favorable comments on the impending solution of the Main Line traffic problem are heard everywhere in the section.

W. G. Frankenfield, chairman of the Ardmore Chamber of Commerce Traffic Committee, said he has high hopes the problem will be handled to the satisfaction of motorists and the communities affected. "There is no doubt," said Mr. Frankenfield, "that a revision of the traffic signals is necessary. I have at times observed double lines of automobiles, two miles in length, moving a few feet at a time or stopped altogether because of the conflict in the present signal system. Uniformity of directions will undoubtedly correct this condition."

Others who have commented along similar lines are R. J. Hamilton, president of the Merion Title and Trust Company and head of the Ardmore Chamber of Commerce; A. L. Reinhold, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; John Phillips, president of the Ardmore National Bank; Charles S. Powell, president of the Main Line Orchestra Association; J. W. Matlack, president of the Bryn Mawr National Bank; and J. W. Hall, of the Bryn Mawr Trust Company.

A survey recently was completed by William S. Canning, engineering director of the Keystone Club; D. C. Stackpole, district engineer of the Highway Department, and G. E. Nagle, the department's maintenance engineer. The data obtained are being reviewed carefully and joint suggestions of the club and the Highway Department will be offered at the Oakmont meeting.

Engineer Canning, in a statement yesterday, said:

"Our effort has been to bring uniformity in the traffic signals. We have absolutely no criticism to make of local authorities. Each community acted in good faith in providing traffic directions that seemed to meet the local requirements. Lack of uniformity, however, has caused confusion and congestion. In conjunction with the Department of Highways we will have various suggestions to offer the police officials at the Oakmont meeting which, in our opinion, will obviate many of the difficulties now encountered."

"Aside from the Main Line traffic problem, the meeting will have a special significance for the police officers. J. Borton Weeks, president of the club, whose work, 'The Rights of a Motorist,' is a reference book in every traffic court in the State, will give an interpretation of the new vehicle code, giving in detail the changes in the law as they affect the every-day activity of police and motorists."

NEARING QUOTA

Mrs. Alexander Brown, chairman of the Main Line Branch of the American Red Cross, issued the following statement this week: "6000 members are enrolled so far in the Main Line Branch Roll Call for 1928, totaling $9318.75, with several districts still to be heard from. "Should by accident any houses be missed by the solicitor those wishing to renew their memberships or join the Main Line Branch (which I urge all to do) may bring or send subscriptions to Headquarters, Memorial Building, Bryn Mawr, Pa."

"I greatly appreciate the efforts made by those helping me in this good work and hope to find the same spirit of co-operation next year."

Petty Burglaries

A series of petty burglaries have annoyed residents along the Main Line the past few weeks. Four entries were reported in Merion three weeks and several have also been made in Rosemont. Nothing but overcoats and hats has been taken by the thief.

THE "BIG STICK" YEARS

Sullivan's Second Volume Covers Roosevelt Administration.

Among the new books placed in circulation at the library during the month of November is the second volume of "Our Times," by Mark Sullivan. The first volume, which appeared last year with its sub-title "The Turn of the Century," was one of the very popular books of the season, and this second volume, "America Finding Herself," is arousing even more interest. Mr. Sullivan is performing a very unusual task in gathering together the raw material of a current period.

In this second volume he gives a clear picture of what the American nation was during the years of the Roosevelt administration, and at the same time traces in the minds of the great men of that day the influence of the games they played as children, the songs they sang and the school books they studied. All the grown-ups will want to read these reminiscences of a well remembered period, whether the recollections bring laughter or tears.

Other books received the past month are as follows:

"When Titt Meets Titt," by Arthur Train.

"My Heart and My Flesh," by Elizabeth Roberts.

"Rough Riders," by Hermann Hagedorn.

"Melody of Death," by Edgar Wallace.

"Quest of Youth," by Jeffery Farnol.

"Arrogant Beggar," by Anzia Yezierska.

"Rise of American Civilization," by Thomas and Mary Beard.

"Dog Stories," by E. V. Lucas.

"Forlorn River," by Zane Grey.

"Red Sky at Morning," by Margaret Kennedy.

"Rebellion," by Mateel Howe Farnham.

"Woodrow Wilson, His Life and Letters," by Ray Stannard Baker.

"Adam and Eve," by John Erskine.

"Escape," by John Galsworthy.

"Short History of Women," by Langdon Davis.

"Tristan and Isolde," by John Masefield.

Be Coal-Wise

You ask a doctor his advice on medicine . . . a tailor his opinion in matters of style . . . a caterer his idea of a banquet . . . but you depend upon your own imagination to tell you the kind of coal to use in your heater.

To become "coal-wise" you should first know about the elements in coal—and how they act. That will bring you to Carbon, the heat-producing element in coal.

Then you will wonder which coal contains the most carbon among different Anthracites. Analysis will show it to be
